

A new photograph of Miss Katherine Boston, prominent in social and philanthropic affairs in New York.

C Underwood & Underwood

This was a perfectly good fire engine originally until it tried to pass an obstructing truck and crashed into a tree. The driver was seriously hurt.

International.

Here is a picture of William L. Gwinn, the heroic chief mail clerk of the Titanic, which was lost ten years ago this month. The British Government has unveiled a memorial at Southampton to him and his associates.

T. J. Drysbrough of the famous Hurlingham Polo Club of England stands next to Julius Fleischmann of New York. Mr. Drysbrough played on the Prince of Wales's team.

Here are just 1,600 tons of medical supplies of all kinds ready to be shipped to Russia by the American Relief Administration.

P. & A.

Princess Olga, eldest daughter of Prince Nicholas of Greece, who is shown here in a recently received photograph, is engaged to Crown Prince Frederic of Denmark.

Kadel & Herbert.

A remarkable photograph just received from South Africa showing the headquarters of the Johannesburg rebels, where they made their last stand before the loyal troops of Premier Smuts, the photograph being taken just after their surrender. It shows the effects of the bombardment in Market Square. In the foreground is the trench in which the rebels made their last stand. The covered body in the foreground is a mute symbol of the fighting just ended.

John McCormack, the famous Irish tenor, who has been desperately ill from throat trouble but who has recovered, is shown here with his devoted wife, who nursed him in his illness.

Fotograms.

This is a rural scene in huts and the equally primitive misruled.